TOPIC - 1

The government is planning to raise the price of gasoline. This is because the subsidy has risen to an acceptable level so that the national budget comes with a deficit. On the one hand, the plan will probably make the use of the fund better, rather than giving the subsidy to the haves. On the other hand, this also will result in more problems for the lay people. They are worried that prices of other commodities will also rise so highly that they will not be able to afford. Write a 300-word essay of your opinion about this issue.

TOPIC - 2

Central Java will have an election of the governor next 26 May 2016. Most politicians believe that this election will have a success, resulting the governor and vice governor for the next five years. Many other, however, are worried that the participation rate of the people will decrease, due to the not-so popular candidates. They believe that the white group (those who will not vote for the governor) rate will reach 65%. Write a 300-word essay of your opinion about this issue.
